Archer Electrical undertook the electrical installation for PureGym to open up yet another gym, this time near Hull. PureGym at Anlaby Retail Park will be the company's first in the region as part of their aggressive UK expansion.

We completed the electrical installation of an industrial theme incorporating high bay LED luminaires for the main Gym areas and power supplies were installed to over 220 pieces of 'state of the art' kit filling the gym.

PureGym is the largest gym chain in the UK and look forward to the opportunity of providing our electrical services for further projects in 2018.

What the client said:

"I was pleased with Archer Electrical this being their first Pure Gym they overcame the learning curve. Their Project Manager Ross Harrison attended progress meetings and was present for a successful handover. I would not hesitate in recommending Archer Electrical for future Pure Gym work.
